Why do you want to become a Virtual Assistant?

Is there a restraint or limitation on becoming a Virtual Assistant?

Do you feel stuck or do you feel that you are not growing anymore in the industry that you are into right now? Do you want changes and want to pursue more without the pressure of having to climb up the corporate ladder?

I was as an Executive Virtual Assistant for 6 long years back in the days. But since the motherhood journey has called me, I have to quit and take care of my kids.

Don't get me wrong, I loved my job. When I was still in college, I used to cut classes because I got curious how Adobe Photoshop works. The graphic design, photo manipulation and what not. I read a lot of articles and tutorials until I discovered the world of web designing, HTML, CSS, database and SQL. I may sound a bit nerdy, but, yes, I created my first website in my local server on my computer from scratch with HTML and CSS. It was then I realized my love for online technology – websites, designs, optimizations so it will load faster and many more.
